THE PALMETTO BLUFF BUFFALO

There is an interesting piece of history and folklore about Palmetto Bluff and “Old Bill”. In the late 1960’s, Alfred Lee Loomis kept a small herd of American Bison on nearby Bull Island. A few of the animals were enticed by the rich food plots on Palmetto Bluff and swam across the Cooper River in hopes of better meals. Eventually, they all returned except for one old Bull, who spent the rest of his life on Palmetto Bluff. When his time ended, he was mounted and hung in Buffalo’s for all to hear of, and maybe add a little bit more to his story.
